Conference Aims

Across Britain today many of our neighbourhoods are fractured and dysfunctional. Individuals have lost their way and are unable to break free from habits and addictions. Relationships are sometimes tense within and between different social groups.

Many statutory agencies are seeking to serve the variety of communities, and numerous methods have been explored to engage with local people, with mixed success.

Yet in the work to engage with and strengthen communities many local facilities and skilled individuals with the potential to make a significant contribution can be overlooked.

Faith can be a significant motivator towards community involvement and social action, yet often faith is viewed as a barrier, creating suspicion rather than trust and confidence.

Our conference will:

- Explore the benefits to many agencies in working with the Christian community.
- Identify opportunities which Christian groups offer for partnership working.
- Inspire confidence in statutory agencies to engage with the faith communities.

We will look at what is happening across the country as Christians become more involved in caring for others and providing some of the answers to the issues of need in our communities.

We look forward to welcoming you to glorious Devon!
